HOUSE OF COMMONS.

A Canadian Agent.

The Redistribution Bill.

On Monday afternoon considerable discussion took place on the resolution brought in by McCarthy relative to the appointment of a representative at Washington to guard and represent Canadian interests.

The member for Simoes dealt with the necessity of adopting some means more in keeping with modern institutions than the red tape system hitherto in vogue. He said, he had always recognized the principle that Canada should be represented on matters subject to negotiations between England and the United States. A knowledge of Canadian questions was a necessary qualification in a representative to a foreign court, and this qualification was best possessed in a Canadian.

Hon. Mr. Foster said he would support the motion as it evinced a desire for the extension into Canada of the management of her own affairs both inside and outside the country. He considered the condition of Canada an anomalous one, that such representatives would have more than a commercial status and less than a representative of a foreign power. The government here had already inaugurated a system of appointing commercial representatives at various trade centres.
By this means good results had been achieved in France and in the West Indies. He quite agreed that it would be a good idea to have a commercial agent at Washington charged with the duty of watching the tendency of trade and other Canadian interests, but it should not be overlooked that if the duties were exceeded, difficulty might arise as to the practical nature of his position.

Mr. Laurier warmly supported the motion which he considered a step in the right direction. He favored the appointment of a commercial agent at Washington, and recommended that this official be given a quasi diplomatic status as well. Such an ambassador should, to avoid delays, report concu-rently to both Great Britain and Canada, then Canada would not be exposed to such a commercial war as was threatened in 1888. As long as Canada remained a dependency of the Crown she should insist upon self guarding her rights.

The main provisions of the Redistribution Bill which has lately been passed are as follows:—

Starting with Prince Edward Island, that province loses a member. Heretofore this province has been divided into three counties—Queen's, King's and Prince—each electing two representatives. The province will now be divided into five districts, each as near a square block as it can be made, and approximating as closely as possible the matter of population and area. Each district will have one representative.

New South and New Brunswick.

New Scotia loses a member. This it is understood, will be effected by amalgamating Queen's and Shelburne.
The new district will be somewhat large, but it is thought better to adopt this plan than change the boundaries of several constituencies in the attempt to have an exact equalization. The same may be said with regard to New Brunswick, which province loses two members. One will be taken from St.
John city and county, which now elects three members, and Queen's and Sunbury will not be amalgamated, the other constituencies remaining intact.

Quebec.

Quebec, of course, remains as before.

in the matter of number, but the growth of the city of Montreal necessitates a change in the constituencies, which will be effected so as to touch as few electoral districts as possible. A group of eight small constituencies on the south side of the St. Lawrence will be rearranged into five. Montreal will get two additional members, and Ottawa county, which is of vast size and has nearly 50,000 of a population, will be split in two and given an extra representative.

Ontario.

In Ontario the great growth of Toronto and the increase in population along the north and west of the province demands a rearrangement. This will be done to disturb as few of the ridings as possible. It is understood that by a rearrangement in the western section of the province seven districts will be made out of five. One of these gained will be given to Toronto, the other to Algoma, which being made to include the Nipissing district, at present unrepresented, will be divided into east and west. A few other changes may be made in the provinces equalizing divisions, but not going outside of county lines.

The Great West.

Manitoba gets two new members.
This will be effected by redistributing the present four country districts into six, adding one to the north and one to the southern tier. No change is made in the Territories.

In British Columbia the growth of population on the sea coast, and the springing up of Vancouver and the growth of the city of New Westminster, makes a change necessary. The present electoral districts of Yale and Cariboo will be united, giving the riding a population of about 15,000, while the New Westminster district will be divided into North and South Westminster, with one member for each.
Vancouver city will be in the north riding and New Westminster in the south district. These, generally speaking, are the provisions of the Redistribution bill of 1892.

BIG FIRE IN WINNIPEG.

THE PRINCESS OPERA HOUSE GOES UP IN SMOKE.

The Total Loss $100,000.

On Sunday morning the citizens of Winnipeg awakened to find in progress one of the most disastrous fires in the history of the capital of the prairie province.

The fire originated in the Princess Opera House.

By the time the fire brigade arrived on the scene, though only a few moments had elapsed since the fire was first observed, the south wall of the opera house had tumbled over. In an incredibly short space of time the whole edifice was enveloped in flames, as also the adjoining stables on Princess street and three houses on Ross street.

The wind was variable at the commencement of the fire, and there was quite a stiff breeze blowing. However, the brigade was distributed to the best advantage, and worked like Trojans to prevent the spread of the fire. Notwithstanding the valiant efforts made the flames, fanned by a strong wind and fed by light, dry material, gained rapid headway and spread to the adjoining buildings.

The Salvation Army barracks at length caught, and, while fighting this new danger the firemen were in great peril, as the brick veneer fronts of the opera house block threatened to fall at any moment. The north wall was the first to succumb, falling inward. A few moments after, and even while the firemen were moving a little to the north, the east wall fell with a crash on the planks of Princess street.

Notwithstanding the strenuous exertions put forth, the fire, except from the corner stables to the carpenter shop of Lamden & Keel, then to Mr.

Dew's carriage shop, next to W. W.
Walsh's feed and sale stables, and to Dr. Dunbar's veterinary office. Here the fire was got under control in its course westward, but the wind having changed, the flames were carried across Jemima street and ignited the implement warehouse of Frost & Wood and Robinson's livery stable. The latter was only partially destroyed, while that of the former was entirely consumed, as also the adjoining premises, the stables of J. Moyle.

On Ross street, two cottages, adjoining the Princess Opera House, were crushed by the falling of the west wall of the latter structure, which also ignited the large frame dwelling occupied by Mrs. Galles as a boarding house. These premises were so speedily enveloped that the occupants had scarcely time to escape with their lives, and therefore every article of the contents was also consumed by the fire.

THE TORRENS SYSTEM.

Whatever may have been the merits or demerits of the system of registration of instruments affecting real estate in the Territories, before the introduction of the system already in force, it possessed at least two undoubted advantages in that it was both inexpensive and expeditious in its operations. This cannot be said of the Torrens System, as operated in the Territories. This system is much more expensive than it should be. The charges for registration should be reduced to less than one-half of what they are now.

We could easily adduce facts and figures which would show this conclusively. This fact is too well known to require illustration. Further, such a clerical staff should be employed in each lands titles' office as would cause the work pertaining to it to be expeditiously performed. It is, we are informed, from one to two weeks before instruments sent to Regina for registration are returned. This needless delay, arising from the employment of an insufficient staff of clerks, causes, and would naturally be expected to cause, much annoyance to those who have business to do with that office.

Neither objection is inherent in the system itself. Both can be easily remedied. But until the cost of registration is greatly decreased, and until instruments are returned the day they are received by a registrar, the Assembly is doing less than its duty to the public, and the Territories Real Property Act will not be regarded as the boon it promised to be.

SECTIONMEN'S WAGES.

A theory is prevalent that any man can handle a pick and shovel, and, with a reasonable capacity for swearing, is capable of taking his place on the road as a section-man. It is time this theory was exploded.

Little do the public at large know of the hardships of section-men or how much of their safety, while travelling so comfortably, ought to be credited to this class of men.

The track-men must patrol the road in all weather, rain or shine, warm or cold, and often serious accidents are averted by their watchfulness.

That trackmen receive the smallest compensation for their services of any department of railroad work must be apparent to all who take the pains to investigate the responsibilities and duties that are put upon them. By force of circumstance, or in order to keep the wolf from the door, a man goes on a section and works faithfully two or three years at a salary of $1.25 per day or a monthly wages of $37.50.

In this northwestern country at least, where the cost of living is so excessive, this state of things should not longer exist. It is to be hoped that ere long higher wages for section foremen and men will be the rule of the railroads of Canada.

BEURING SEA CONTROVERSY.

The Marquis of Lorne in a recent article says:—

"It is well to remember that the only debatable point which delayed the ratification of the arbitration treaty by the senate is a very small one, and refers only to the single season's hunting by no great number of vessels. While men of indubitable probity declare this cannot injure a property, the value of which consists chiefly in a right which cannot be assailed, to catch the seals on shore, it seems unnecessary to have any further delay in concluding the reference to arbitration. This arbitration will decide the more important matter of the right of a maritime power to close any portion of the ocean to the citizens of other nations. Some complaints of delay have arisen on both sides, but it is certain that the British have expedited the correspondence as far as practicable and it is indeed only natural that both sides should desire the settlement of a question which cannot be said to involve the permanent national interests of either party. The United States believes that it purchased certain rights from the Russians. These are only in part questioned by those who fully admit all rights as to land ownership, but object only to be deprived of that which not only British but all other maritime people, claim as common property, namely, the right to hunt at will over the unenclosed length and breadth of the ocean itself. When the arbitration has done its work, the seal-fishing industry must be protected by a sensible close time, giving the subjects of the United States and Britain each the power to use and not to abuse the advantages given by the northern immigration of the fur seal.

It is incompatible with any international comity that one power alone can patrol the open sea. Other nations—Russia, France, Germany, or any that may be named—have a right to the navigation of these waters, and it is primarily in the interest of the powers having harbors in the more immediate neighbourhood that provision should be mutually made for the preservation of the seal species, not by the dragging in of ancient alleged Russian exclusive privileges, but by the sensible delimitation of seasons for hunting, based on scientific investigation, which should be impartial and founded on painstaking observation and practical experience. The fair solution of this matter is the extension of the principle of arbitration on either side, and the future determination to avoid that waste which would injure alike the subjects of the London and the Washington Governments."

EDITORIAL AND GENERAL NOTES.

The Czar of Russia contemplates another visit to his Caucasian dominions. This will be the second visit paid by a Russian Emperor to the wildest and most disturbed province in Russia.

Chas Langolier and Ernest Pacaud, accused of conspiracy to defraud the province of Quebec in connection with contracts for stationery, appeared in the police court on April 28th, in answer to a summons served upon them. Their cases were postponed to suit the convenience the crown prosecutor.

The Lieutenant Governor of the Legislature of the Province of Quebec delivered his speech from the Throne last week. He charged as a first duty a rigid care over the financial situation and hoped that strenuous efforts would be made to restore the equilibrium between receipts and expenditure and to re-establish the credit of the province. He enjoined the closest economy in public expenditure.

Prince Albert Times: "The action of the town constable in summoning a youth for blaspheming on the street will no doubt prove a warning to others. Visitors to our town have frequently expressed their abhorrence at the disgusting and coarse language indulged in by those who should know better."

J. X. Perrault, a prominent French Canadian in Montreal, and a leading member of the Chamber de Commerce, says in an article in La Patrie, advocating independence: "Now the interests of Canada are no longer those of the metropolis. Let us separate amicably and with good will to all concerned, and not await until more serious difficulties arise, as in the case of the proclamation of Independence by the States. As no other interest can excel that of our native land and as the metropolis squarely refuses control of our affairs, our duty is clearly set before us. Nothing is left for us but to break at last the colonial tie."

The extension of the Inland Revenue Act to the Northwest provincial districts has necessitated the opening of offices in the Territories for the transaction of revenue business. It has been decided to establish offices at Mooseomin, Regina, Medicine Hat, Calgary, Lethbridge, Macleod, Edmonton and Prince Albert. The officers appointed to act for the Inland Revenue department at the places named are: Postmaster, Mooseomin; D. B. Jameson, sub-collector of customs, Regina; the postmaster, Medicine Hat; Thomas Dowling, Calgary; F. Champness, sub-collector of customs, Lethbridge; Dr. Allen, collector of customs, Macleod; the postmaster, Edmonton; H. E. Ross, inspector of weights and measures, Prince Albert.

At the gathering of the Masonic fraternity held in Winnipeg in honor of J. Ross Robertson, Grand Master of Canada, Mr. Robertson recalled his previous visits to Manitoba in 1870 and 1885, in both of which periods the province was in a state of disturbance. He created much amusement by his description of his experiences in these times. He also informed his audience that his visit was the last of 340 visits that he has made in connection with masonry during his two years' term of office, and he professed his satisfaction with the cordiality of his reception from the fraternity at Winnipeg. The universal comment was that Grand Master Robertson's visit was the most pleasing event that has taken place in connection with masonry in Manitoba for many years.

Judgment was delivered on April 27th by Judge Richardson in the action of A. Harris, Son & Co., vs. David Dustin. The action was brought on three promissory notes made by the defendant in favor of the plaintiffs. The notes were given under the following circumstances: The plaintiff entered into two executory agreements one to sell the defendant a saw for $300, and the other a binder for $270.00, provided defendant made certain payments to plaintiffs, of which the notes issued on represented the sums alleged to be unpaid. The defendant claimed that the plaintiffs, by their own acts and conduct, relieved him, at his option from paying the amounts sued on, and asked to have relief given him, and at the same time he counter claimed for the money paid by him to the plaintiffs. The judge found that the plaintiffs had taken back the machines with the intention of keeping them, and held that they had exercised acts of ownership sufficient to rescind the contract, and bring the case within the limits of Sawyer vs. Pringle, 18, Ont. A. R., which was reviewed and followed. It was held further that the conduct of the plaintiffs in retaking and retaining possession and control of the machines evinced an intention no longer to be bound by the contract. Freeth vs. Burr, L. R. 9, C. P. 208 and Mersey Steel and Iron Co. vs. Naylor, 9 Ann. Cas 439. Judgment that the plaintiffs action be dismissed with costs and that defendant's counter claim be dismissed with costs relating thereto to plaintiffs.

This means that according to the judgment the implements had, at the time the plaintiffs had resumed possession of them, deteriorated in value to the amount paid thereon by the defendant viz $142.50. The judgment, is however, a general one for the defendant.

Scott, G. C. and Grayson for plaintiffs; Gordon and Nelson for defendant.

GENERAL NOTES.

A Hangman's Author.

A gruesome book is "My Experiences as an Executioner," by James Berry. There is one passage in the late executioner's book which is in a sense satisfactory to read. It appears that at executions where there has been no avowal of guilt it has been the habit of Mr. Berry to ask from the condemned man or woman a private confession for the relief of the executioner's own feelings in order that he might feel sure he was not hanging an innocent person. The confessions resorted to him at such moments he has, he says, never divulged, but he is at liberty to state that of all the people he has executed only two or three have died without fully and freely confessing their guilt. It would be interesting to know, but Mr. Berry does not say, what the man Lee, condemned to death for the Baltimore murder, made any statement to him. This was the man whose sentence was commuted after Mr. Berry had made two attempts to execute him, the trap-doors of the scaffold on each occasion falling to give way when the bolt was drawn. Whatever he may have said to the executioner, he maintained his innocence to all others, and in view of his solemn declarations, the extraordinary failure to execute him created a great sensation. The generally received explanation of the failure was that the doors of the scaffold were swollen by the rain; but from the facts now stated by Mr. Berry, the true reason appears to have been that both the wood and iron work of the scaffold were not substantial enough. The lever and doors acted perfectly when tried without the prisoner, but when he stood on the platform his weight beat the apparatus, and had the effect of looking out a few inches which ought to have moved from their place when the bolt was drawn.

Grain Unharmed.

Southern Manitoba at present presents the most singular appearance ever shown by any country at this season of the year. There are thousands of grain stacks still standing and thousands of acres still covered, ed by stacks, that have been on the fields since last harvest. Some of these will be stacked and some will be burned to clear the ground for another crop. It is difficult to say what will happen of the stacks. There is at present no market whatever for grain in many points of the province and much of what was threshed during the winter and stored in farmer's granaries is in danger of heating and will be a total loss. Should heavy rains set in, as is usual in early summer further damage may be expected. Had there been more help in harvest last season some of the evil might have been avoided, but as in every portion of the province the wheat crop was more or less injured by frost and was consequently of little value for export that the price of the grain would not always pay for the high cost of securing and threshing the product; as a result some was never cut, some never stacked, some never threshed and much never sold, for no one cared to buy. If coming events sometimes catch their shadows before they may be well for every farmer to take precaution in future to husband his grain with more care.

My Judge's memory.

One of the most striking features in Sir John's character was his wonderful facility for remembering faces and incidents. He never met a man whom he had once known without being able to address him by name and recall some little matter connected with their previous intercourse. The late Hon. Alex. Mackenzie did not possess this faculty, but he was possessed to the full of Scotch caution. He was in New York on one occasion when a gentleman who had known him casually in Ottawa rushed up and exclaimed:

"Why, Mr. Mackenzie, how are you?" The then Premier did not remember his effusive friend, but he did recollect what he had heard of him as a scoundrel, and turning aside he remarked, coldly:

"Young man; you can't do that with me."

"Athol Murray Her son."

The most touching message sent to the mourners of the late Hon. Alex. Mackenzie was that formed by the four words cabled from his birth place. "Athol mourns her son." This is a poem in that one sentence. It emphasized the ardent patriotism, the intense love of fatherland which ever exists in the breasts of those of the Scottish race, and illustrates afresh the strength of that feeling of kinship which holds the sons of Auld Scotland in an indissoluble bond of union, even when separated in the body by oceans and continents.

C. P. R. Earnings.

The gross earnings of the C. P. R. for March last were $1,689,799; working expenses, $1,083,393; net profit $606,406. In March, 1891, the net profit was $497,040 and for the three months ending March 31st, 1892, the figures were as follows: Gross earnings, $4,666,270; working expenses, $3,217,582; net profit, $1,448,688. For the three months ending March 31st, 1891, the net profit was $1,165,370.

KINDNESS FOR ANIMALS.

A Woman's Life Devoted to Charity, from Which Sprang the Boy's S. P. A.

The will of the late Mrs. Rebecca Willing, widow of Dr. Charles Willing, and who was buried from her residence, near Jenkintown, recently, provides many charitable bequests.

Conspicuous among the number is that to the "Young American Humane Union," to which she gives her house, 916 Spruce street, in "Portico row," for the maintenance of a reading room.

Mrs. Willing was the daughter of Hon. J. L. Tillinghast, of Rhode Island, and at the time of her marriage was considered one of the most beautiful women and one of the greatest belles of society in the eastern part of the United States. Endowed with great wealth and occupying high social position, she devoted herself to works of philanthropy. She founded, among other institutions, the first day nursery in Philadelphia, if not in the country. But she had a special life work, a favorite theory, and a peculiar form of benevolence. She did not believe that kindness was limited to the human race, but should be extended to the dumb creatures of the field and the domestic pets of the hearthstone. Her theory was preventive rather than reparative. Instead of founding animal asylums, or hospitals, she believed in educating the masses from the tenderest age of childhood in humane principles, and was largely instrumental in inducing the board of public education to confine the teaching of kindness to the brute creation, as part of the course of school instruction, and to supply, with the smallest possible encroachment upon time, and without expense to the schools, the simple system of humane education, which has been already accepted by teachers and directors in many sections, comprising great numbers of schools. In this work she was the pioneer in this country.

Encouraged by the principal and the directors of the Locust street schools, in 1874 she formed a society among the boys of the Grammar school, with the motto, "Be kind to all living things." The society was organized on the basis of kindness, and with the purpose of cultivating among themselves habits of kindness, as well as protecting from cruelty whatever needed their care. It was called the "Boys' Society for the Protection of Animals," and held occasional school meetings, under the guidance of the principal, who was president of the branch in his own school.

There was recitation or reading of humane literature such as Longfellow's poem, "The Alarm Bell of Atrix," the banner, the color of which represented that branch, was hung up, new members were enrolled by the presentation of a badge, there was a short address, and books, papers and cards were distributed for home reading. This simple organization gradually extended with the sanction of teachers and directors and the strenuous efforts of Mrs. Willing to seven boys' grammar schools, carrying humane literature to thousands of homes. A reading room was provided where many excellent books and magazines could be enjoyed in the intervals of school hours and on holidays, and the "Boys' S. P. A." became a source of interest and enjoyment as well as an influence for good.

About the same time the Band of Mercy movement was organized in England, and during the next eighteen months rapidly extended. In the meantime Hon. George T. Angell and Rev. Thomas Timmins introduced the English Band of Mercy into the schools and homes of New England, and the Boys' society, founded in Philadelphia by Mrs. Willing, followed their action by establishing one in this city, which within three years had reached a membership of 8,000, gathered by their own efforts and those of the committee of ladies, under the leadership of Mrs. Willing; working with them in mission schools, orphan homes, Sunday schools of all denominations and public schools. The membership of the boys' society being equally large, and its earlier members having come to manhood, the two departments were in 1884 consolidated under the name of "The Young American Humane Union." Its members, believing humane education to be the most important part of the work of mercy, direct their efforts mainly to this object, and seek its furtherance by all the means in their power, having the firm conviction that every step in teaching mercy is a step to prevent crime.—Philadelphia Press.

WHO WOULD BE A KING?

How Some of Europe's Crowned Heads Wearily Drag Through Life.

The recent death of the king of Portugal reminds one that the emperors and kings of this earth are, taking them all round, a very unhealthy and unhappy set of people. Such a thing as a jolly monarch, with a good digestion, is scarcely to be found. The czar suffers horribly from his nerves, and is at times hypochondriacal; the empress is as much tortured by nerves as her husband, and has long periods of intense prostration. The emperor of Austria is healthy enough, but he is a sad man, for the empress has been during the last ten years a martyr to sciatica and rheumatic fevers, and her mind has been affected to the extent of making her capricious, hysterical and melancholy.

She belongs to that Wittelsbach family, in whose blood there is a taint of insanity, which broke out in King Louis of Bavaria, in the present King Otto and in the late Crown Prince Rudolph of Austria. The king of Wurtemberg, too, is more than half crazy, and King Milan of Serbia must be added to the list of sovereigns whom nervousness renders well nigh irresponsible for their actions. In King Milan's case, as in the czar's and the sultan's, the fear of assassination has been the main determining cause of mental disorder. The predecessors of all three were murdered, and the world does not hold three more wretched, nightmare haunted men than the czar, the Sultan Abdul Hamid and King Milan. The German emperor, has some very distressing physical ailments. He has an impotent left hand, and he suffers from periodical suppurations of the left ear, which sometimes make him frantic with pain and afterwards dizzy from dizziness. The King of Spain is a baby, but his father, Alfonso XII, ruined his constitution by excesses of all kinds and during the last year of his life could be kept going only by champagne and opiates. The King of Holland offers another example of a ruined constitution, but the process of destruction took longer with him than with Alfonso, for he had a stronger constitution to start with. Since his second marriage, however, the king of Holland has been an invalid, and is hardly attended, indeed, by his young wife, but always ailing, suffering, grumbling, and now he has sunk into dotage. The king of Italy suffers from a gastric derangement, brought on, as his doctors say, by too much smoking of rank tobacco of Virginia, and he has to diet himself with milk, light broth and stewed fruits.

The queen of England and the kings of Sweden, Denmark, Roumania, Greece and Belgium are the only sovereigns who can be said to enjoy the blessings of the sun and air in the sound body. Leopold of Belgium, however, is lame, and King Charles of Roumania, though healthy himself, has been made very miserable by the nervous malady of his wife, Queen Elizabeth, who for a long time was haunted by hallucinations which brought her to the verge of insanity. Altogether, it will be seen that in the imperial and royal families there are very few persons whom all political risks apart—an insurance company's physician would certify as having "first class lives."—Berlin Cor. New York Post.

At Windsor Castle.

The redecoration of the corridor of Windsor Castle has just been completed at a cost of several thousand pounds. The work has been constantly in progress all the year except when the queen has been at the castle. The new design, which was chosen by Princess Beatrice, is of sage green. In the corridor are a large number of splendid cabinets, many of which are filled with china, one set of Rose Tree Porcelain being valued at £30,000. At the upper end of the corridor is a bust of George, which is in his pocket Bible, inclosed in crystal. Guests for the queen's dinner party invariably assemble in the corridor, as the oak room, where her majesty lunches and dines, opens from it, and close to the door hangs Professor Angell's celebrated portrait of Beaufort, next to it being a curious portrait of George II.

The queen's private apartments are in the immediate vicinity of the corridor, and three drawing rooms, the white, the green and the red, open from it. The decoration of the room, which is the most important work of the kind that has been carried out in the private apartments since the grand dining room at the northeast corner of the castle was splendidly redecorated in cream and gold, just before the jubilee. This room contains a magnificent carved sideboard of rosewood, and also a gold punch bowl and ladle for which George IV paid 10,000 guineas.—Toronto Globe.

PHYSIOLOGY AND HYGIENE.

Light in the Sick Room—Health Statistics of Two Great Cities.

The sick room in private houses is generally kept darkened, in spite of much sanitary teaching to the contrary. Commenting on this practice, Dr. R. W. Richardson says: Not one time in ten do we enter a sick room in the daytime to find it darkened with the light of the sun. Almost invariably, before we can get a look at the face of the patient, we are obliged to remark that the blinds may be drawn up, in order that the rays of a much greater healer than the most able physician can ever hope to be admitted. Too often the complacency with this request reveals a conviction of the room, which, in a state of darkness, is almost inevitably one of disorder everywhere; food, medicines, furniture, bedding misplaced; dust and stray leavings in all directions.

In brief, there is nothing so bad as a dark sickroom; it is as if the attendants were anticipating the death of the patient; and, if the reason for it be asked, the answer is as inconsistent as the act. The reason usually offered is that the patient cannot bear the light, as though the light could not be cut off from the patient by a curtain or screen, and as though to darken one part of the room it were necessary to darken the whole of it. A more injurious practice really could not be maintained than that of darkness in the sickroom. It is not only dark and disagreeable, but it is a great enemy to recovery. The light should never be shut out, and in the presence of the light the shadows of gloom fly away.

Insanity Due to Flour.

The organization of the Old Stone Millers' association at Detroit, with the avowed purpose of educating the public mind to the dangers to health attending the use of roller flour and the superiority of old stone flour throws some doubt upon the statement that "the world does move." The association charges patent flour with being the cause of the rapid increase of insanity and kindred diseases, as well as the startling fact that the human race are fast losing their teeth and dentists are multiplying by hundreds in every part of the country. The new association has already started a beautiful influence in the inquiry and investigation which the discussion of the subject will involve, even if the result should be its own discomfiture.—New York Telegram.

An Early Riser.

"Pak, you must be an early riser. I always get up at work the first thing in the morning." "Judge and O'Connell, son. It's a family trait. O do be thankful." "These your father is an early riser, too, sh?" "No father, is it? Fair, an' he rises that early that he's got to bed a little later he's got himself getting up in the mornin'."—Richmond Dispatch.

School Inspection.

There will commence forthwith, the inspectors taking the following districts:

Mr. Flett, all of Saskatchewan; Mr. Gillies, Alberta north of Calgary and the schools on the Manitoba and North Western railway in Eastern Assiniboia; Mr. Rothwell, Western Assiniboia and Southern Alberta including Calgary. Mr. Hewitt, Eastern Assiniboia south of township twenty, which of course includes the schools on the C. P. R. and south.

This arrangement is not permanent. It is made only with a view to the present inspection. Each Inspector will inspect both Protestant and Catholic schools.

CASE OF THANKS.

Mr. and Mrs. Harley E. Miller desire to extend their sincere and heartfelt thanks to their friends for the many tokens of kindness and expressions of sympathy that were extended to them in their late hour of bereavement.

$10 REWARD.

The above reward will be paid for the return, or for such information as will lead to the recovery of a team of feeling, one a roan with white stripes in face and hind legs, split in front, the other a bay, striped in face with one white hind foot, stolen from foot. These animals strayed from 1892-93, W. J. M. about three weeks ago.

The Ball Family Concert.

The concert given in Russell Hall on Friday night by this company received a fair house, but not as good as it deserved. The singing was fairly good, although some of the voices of the younger members of the family show evidences of overtaxing. The guitar selections were exceedingly good. As a whole the concert was a decided success and amply repaid those who heard it.

Shooting Accident.

A accident happened a few miles south of Indian Head on Monday, by which a man named Nathan White, a new settler from Portageville, Ontario, lost his life. It appears that White was going for a load of hay, and had for company a man named William Spreadborough, employed by the Dominion Government collecting specimens of wild birds. Spreadborough jumped off the wagon to shoot what appeared to be a hawk and in attempting to again get into the wagon, the gun went off. The charge entered White's spinal column. Death was instantaneous.

An inquest was held by the coroner. The jury returned a verdict of accidental death, Spreadborough being exonerated.

The circumstances has cast a gloom over the entire community as deceased was universally respected. He leaves a wife and small family in Ontario.

To Return to Canada.

The Canadian government has decided to take back the band of Crees, who have been a source of annoyance in Montana for some time. The Indians have been regarded as outlaws and a constant source of annoyance to women and children in sparsely settled communities. They have no visible means of support, and the belief is general that they plunder people in the winter and return to the Northwest Territories in the spring. The Canadian authorities are prepared to take back the Indians belonging to Canada upon their being taken to the border by the United States authorities for that purpose.

With the exception of a few Indians who go for the purpose of visiting their friends in the United States and returning, nothing is known of Crees Indians having gone across the line since refugees went over after the half breed and Indian troubles in the Northwest in 1885.
